Stock options are a very safe method to generate income in IRA accounts Selling call options against stocks already owned is a conservative method to generate income. Selling cash secured puts, lets investors buy stocks at the price they want to pay. Selling call and put option spreads allows investors to generate income without having to purchase the stock, or sell the stock short. The purchase side of the option spread, limits the total amount of loss to the options trader, if the trader's strategy fails.

Allow investors / traders to continue using stock options in their IRAs.
